

Meet Our Consultant

David Hood

Professor in the Doctor of Business Administration program - College of Business, at Johnson and Wales University

David Hood is a professor in the Doctor of Business Administration program - College of Business, at Johnson and Wales University; where he previously taught in Arts & Sciences as a faculty member teaching leadership and English. He began his teaching career with the university in 2008, after earning a B.S. in Hospitality Administration and an M.B.A. at Johnson & Wales. David went on to receive an M.Ed. in learning and development at Rhode Island College, and a Ph.D. in leadership studies at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. In Lincoln, he studied the role a Chief of Staff has on an organization along with varying areas of leadership and strategy.

In addition to teaching, Dr. Hood has acted as a consultant for various sized organizations where he works with top leadership to strengthen business practices and offer assistance in building strategic plans. In his consulting work he coaches leaders and speaks on topics like small business innovations, organizational behavior, innovative marketing tactics, social media, and general business planning.

Originally from California, David lived in Rhode Island and now resides in Denver. Hood is an active member of multiple local, national and global organizations, as well as a dedicated consultant for the Denver Metro Small Business Development Center.